A Fortress of Health

A Modern Medical Center

In progress as well as in science a hospital is a fortress of health.

Our first, modern hospitals are the richest concentrations in the world of medical knowledge and skill. They are health centers which guard the people of their communities.

While your hospital is nursing the sick and the injured, its laboratories are finding new ways to protect your health. As a result of medical research in hospitals, many diseases are disappearing.

Modern surgery, aided by skillful nursing in hospitals, restores to health tens of thousands each year.

In the past, people gradually knew the value of hospitals scarcely as the best places to which they could turn out of accident or when an operation was unavoidable. Today people are rapidly beginning to realize that the hospital is the best place in which to be in event of any serious illness.

No home, no matter how comfortable, is so well equipped as hospitals. The many forms of service — any one of which may be needed intensely and impressively — are properly coordinated hospital.

People unfamiliar with the wide scope of hospital work think only of the patients in hospital beds. Our great hospital is identical today in its clinics as average of 512 stationing patients each day. The hospital of the future will play an even greater part in caring for the health of the people. It will be a medical center which induces health protection.

Many hospitals are supported by taxation. A few private hospitals and societies are on a self-supporting basis. But the great majority of private hospitals are dependent upon endowments and continuing contributions for their economic support, management and needed surgical, medical and nursing staffs.

THE REPARATION DILEMMA

The 140,000th issue of World's this year commemorates significant milestones in news and world events. From the first issue ever to the last, World's has been a leading chronicle of the world's news.

The demand for copies is still as great as ever. Despite the fact that the magazine is no longer printed on glossy paper, it is still one of the most popular magazines in the world.

In Canada, to describe the policy of the Government in relation to and enactment of the gold standard has involved the deliberate collection of the circulation of money and credit purchasing power at a rate where the very process of making a policy was needed.
